What is juice concentrate?

Water can comprise as much as 90% of juice. When most of this liquid is removed, the result is a thick, syrupy product known as juice concentrate. Extracting the water reduces bacterial growth, meaning that concentrate doesn't spoil as easily as juice.

Orange juice is high in many nutrients, including vitamin C about 45%, folate, and potassium. Orange juice is a concentrated source of vitamin C, a water-soluble vitamin that doubles as a powerful antioxidant and plays a central role in immune function. Additionally, vitamin C helps promote bone formation, wound healing, and gum health. Orange juice is also rich in folate, which is needed for DNA synthesis and supports fetal growth and development. Not to mention, it's an excellent source of the mineral potassium, which regulates blood pressure, prevents bone loss, and protects against heart disease and stroke.
